

Memories from Erin (Landry) Jones

When I think of Grandma Landry, I think of so many wonderful childhood memories I have with her. The summers spent in ocean city, just having fun at the beach, eating seafood and always having a good time. Grandma had a sweet tooth, just like me, so we always enjoyed some nice desserts on our summer vacations with her. As an adult, I think about how strong and special Grandma Landry really was.

She was very independent and happy, with a sweet, gentle spirit to her. I also have Grandma Landry to thank for helping with my college education - something I probably took for granted at the time, but has helped me get where I am today.

She will be missed by us all, but I'm certain we will see her again someday. She's in a much better place now, where the hindrance of an aging human body can't slow her down anymore.
